Catering To Tourists

Approximately twenty millions of dollars will be expended by the Governments of the three Canadian prairie provinces in the construction and maintenance of good roads this year, not to mention several more millions which municipalities will devote to other roads not included in the system of through Provincial highways and main market roads. It is a lot of money. It represents the largest single item of expenditure for any one service. It means an outlay of at least ten dollars for every man, woman and child in Western Canada.

A very considerable portion of this vast sum is being expended on the assumption that, quite apart from the benefits that will directly accrue to our own people by reason of these good roads, they will be the means of attracting an ever increasing volume of tourist traffic from other Provinces and the States to the south, and that these visitors will bring much business and profit to our people through the purchases and expenditures they will make in this country. In a word, the avowed object of a goodly portion of this expenditure is to encourage visitors to tour the West.

Good roads, admittedly, are essential if we are to develop a large tourist business. But, in themselves, they are not enough. These prospective tourists can find good roads, possibly better ones than we can offer, much nearer home, if a fine highway over which they can speed in comfort and safety is all they are looking for. They will come to Western Canada to enjoy a new, a virgin land. They come expecting something different. What is Western Canada going to provide?

Are we going to allow our highways to be disfigured,—as they have been south of the international boundary line,—by unsightly billboards and advertising devices of various kinds, defacing the landscape, obscuring the scenic beauties our country has to offer, oftentimes confused by drivers with the legitimate road directions, signs, and an eyesore to all? Governments and municipalities can, to a large extent, control the placing of such signs on the highway right-of-way, but individual property owners must co-operate by refusing permission for the erection of billboards and the plastering of signs on private property and buildings.

Our cities, towns and villages should seek to make their respective communities attractive to the visitor, and special attention should be devoted to the approaches to the main roads leading into and out of each settlement. The smaller the place, the more important it is that the surroundings be right, because they are noted to a greater extent by visitors than is the case in larger centres.

Community spirit and enterprise should find expression in having all places in which visitors are expected to stop, for example, hotels, camps, garages, post offices, as clean, neat and efficient as possible. Gasoline and oil companies are setting a good example in making filling stations attractive in appearance, especially in larger centres, with rest rooms, wash rooms, comfort stations, etc. They are out to give service. Other businesses may well emulate them. Even the smallest place on a through highway can support such services.

The main highways through towns and villages should be clearly marked, and the location of such utilities as the post office, the telephone exchange, telegraph office, auto camp, prominently indicated.

Above all, courtesy should be the watchword of every citizen. It should be remembered that they are strangers who are entertaining in your midst. What to you is commonplace, is to them strange and new. They desire information; then go out of your way to supply it. Make them realize how welcome they are so that, when they depart, if they carry away no other impression, they will at least, remember your town as one where the people were cordial, kind and helpful.

The millions of dollars that are being expended on highways is your money. Its expenditure is designed to benefit you and your community directly and indirectly. Make the most of it. This you can only do by individual and community co-operation.

A Modern Fog Alarm

Partridge Island Signal Derives Power From Diesel Engines

The Partridge Island light and fog signal station at the entrance to St. John N.B. harbor, said to be the first steam-operated fog alarm in the world, will in the near future derive its power from modern semi-diesel engines. In adopting this modern power the station may again be the first of the kind in Canada. Other stations depending on oil engines have only internal combustion motors utilizing gasoline as a starting mixture and operating on kerosene as a regular fuel. The light on Partridge Island was established in 1791, and the fog signal in 1859.

Not Properly Qualified

Toronto Professor Says Universities Not Equipped To Study International Relations

Canadian universities are not sufficiently qualified for an adequate study of international law and international relations, Prof. Norman MacKenzie, of the University of Toronto, told the House of Commons committee on industrial and international relations. He knew of no university in Canada, he said, which had a library equipped for the intensive pursuit of these studies.

The committee was considering a resolution sponsored by Miss Agnes MacPhail (Prog. South-east Grey), calling for the establishment of chairs and scholarships of international relations in Canadian universities. There was a field in Canada for improvement in this respect.

Prof. MacKenzie thought parliament might well consider aiding either by grants or other means.

If the libraries were available Professor MacKenzie thought, the studies would be developed by the universities and the students themselves.

Another suggestion he advanced was that competent professors and students in Canadian universities be given greater opportunities to observe the operations of international business.

ST. VITUS DANCE

SUFFERER MADE WELL

Nerves Strengthened Through the Use Of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Time after time cases are brought to the notice of the public where sufferers from nervous troubles have been relieved by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—where victims of St. Vitus Dance have been made well through the use of these pills after other medicines have failed to do of benefit. The reason for this is that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly upon the blood—they make new, rich red blood and in thus banishing all impurities from the blood strengthen the nerves and make St. Vitus Dance impossible.

Mrs. P. Donnelly, Montreal, Que., is one more grateful mother who wishes to add her testimony to those already published. She says:—"My little girl, aged eleven, was a great sufferer from St. Vitus Dance. Several doctors prescribed for her without benefit. She was in the hospital for two weeks—still no benefit. I then saw an advertisement recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for St. Vitus Dance, so decided to try them. My little girl had only taken a couple of boxes when I noticed some improvement, so I continued with the treatment till now she is completely free from the trouble and can enjoy herself as all children do. I can highly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering from St. Vitus Dance or any other form of nervous trouble, for what these Pills have done for my daughter I am sure they will do for others."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Modern Wolf

The wolf that used to sniff around the door now occupies an easy chair in the parlor, right next to the radio, and within easy reaching distance of the iceless refrigerator, the vacuum cleaner, and other necessities of life.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions one of the best remedies that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and they pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

Strikes in Canada Decrease

With One Exception Last Year Most Peaceful Since 1902

With one exception, 1929 was the most peaceful year in Canadian labor since 1902, the number of workers affected by strikes and lockouts falling to 12,924, and the days lost to 153,836. Steady progress toward happier relations between employer and employee has been registered now since 1922, the number of workers affected being as follows: 1922, 41,050; 1923, 32,868; 1924, 32,494; 1925, 25,796; 1926, 24,142; 1927, 22,683; 1928, 18,238; 1929, 12,924.

The figure for last year was only nine per cent. of the 1919 total, the year of the Winnipeg strike. Toronto figured in three of the minor strikes of the year. The painters' strike involved 600 workers, and lasted 35 days, the time loss being 7,800 working days. The plumbers' strike involved 400 workers, lasted 19 days, the time loss being 7,500 days. The plasterers' strike involved 500 workers for 12 days, causing 6,000 days' time loss.

New Industry For Canada

Eighteen Varieties Of Soybean Can Be Cultivated In Dominion

Canadian farmers are finding a new opportunity in the cultivation of the soybean. During 1929 soybean oil and other products to a value of nearly $2,000,000 were imported by Canadian industries. Experimental work conducted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture shows that eighteen varieties can be successfully cultivated in Canada. It grows under essentially the same conditions as corn, and generally speaking, can be grown anywhere corn grows, and with about the same results.

YOUNG WIFE STRENGTHENED

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Bancroft, Ontario—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had been married about a year and my strength was leaving me on account of my condition. I was only 19 and it was my first child. My mother told me I needed something to steady my nerves and a girl friend told me to take the Vegetable Compound. I am so thankful I did because it strengthened my whole system and now I feel perfectly well and have a sweet little baby boy."—Mrs. J. B. STALKER, Bancroft, Ontario.

Recreational Resources of Canada Compose a Loadstone Which Draws Millions Of Visitors

Canada's recreational resources are a national asset of the first order. They compose the lodestone which each year draws millions of visitors to the Dominion and they form a source of wealth which annually adds a large and rapidly growing item to the national income. There are, in fact, few records in the annals of Canadian development more interesting or more remarkable than that of the rise to importance of the Dominion's recreational features. Today the returns from these assets keep pace with those from such major factors as mines and forests.

Some idea of the extraordinary growth of holiday traffic may be gained from the records of touring automobiles entering Canada in recent years. In 1919 the number of cars entering Canada for touring purposes was 238,000 and during the ten years up to 1929 this figure had increased to 4,500,000. Aside from the phenomenal increase of motor tourists, railway and steamship lines each year add large numbers to the thousands who holiday in Canada. Tapping an even wider field than the automobile, these organizations have spread the Dominion's fame as a holiday land literally throughout the world.

The most casual traveller crossing the Dominion from east to west cannot but be struck by the sheer diversity of Canada's natural features. First there is the rugged Atlantic shore; then the great system of inland lakes, seas in depth and size; next a thousand miles of rolling prairie; followed by the great barrier of the Rockies, rivaling the Alps in grandeur; and finally the sea, bathing with its warm waters the far-flung Pacific coast. All these contribute to the glorious panorama of a transcontinental trip across Canadian territory.

The charm of the Maritime Provinces is not easily depicted. These provinces—Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, and New Brunswick—are lined with the mellowness of age that captivates the visitor from newer regions. The snow-white lighthouses crowning the cliffs that overlook the sea, the white wall of the fishing smack seeking its sheltering cove, the quaint fishermen's cottages that straggle up the hillsides, the shaded inland roads and winding forest streams, the springtime mantle of blossom that clothes mile upon mile of orchard valley—all these suggest the elements that blend to give the Maritimes a picturesque peculiarity of their own. In this setting is found all that goes to complete the happiness of the holiday visitor—excellent facilities for motoring, boating, fishing, hunting in season, and all outdoor recreation.

Reaching from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the head of Lake Superior, a voyage of 2,000 miles, one of the world's great systems of interior waterways traverses Eastern Canada. Nowhere exists an interior water route more varied than that traversed in a trip up the storied St. Lawrence, touching at historic Quebec and busy Montreal. Leading on through the Thousand Islands and the Great Lakes, past Toronto, Niagara Falls and a dozen other centres of commercial or scenic interest, such a voyage reveals the heart of Eastern Canada and leaves a vivid impression not only of the natural beauty but of the business life of this part of the Dominion.

The Laurentian region—the huge horseshoe skirting Hudson Bay to the east, south, and west—is pre-eminently the country of forest and stream, of hunting, fishing, and canoeing, of great unexplored areas. Countless lakes and rivers form a network of dustless highways routing the canoeist through a hinterland where trout, bass and muskies, moose, deer and bear, stock a superb field for the sportsman.

The prairies are less familiar as a holiday region. Yet, for thousands of visitors, the fertile western plains with their endless miles of rippling grain present a scene of beauty and satisfaction to countless visitors. Beautiful summer resorts nestle on the shores of prairie lakes, and for the enjoyment of the sportsman few fields offer finer attraction than the hunting, in season, of prairie game birds.

For scenic splendour the Rocky Mountains have been declared by many experienced Alpine climbers to be unsurpassed. Majestic ranges, scarred by age and weather, rear their summits against sky of purest blue or bury their snow-capped peaks in fleecy clouds. Glaciers and waterfalls, emerald tinted lakes and wooded valleys combine to entrance the eye and the enchantment is increased by the alpine air fragrant with the scent of pine and fir. The mountains are noted for their big game—big-horn sheep, grizzly bear, Rocky Mountain goat, elk, deer, moose, caribou, black and brown bear, and mountain lion.

Canada's Pacific coast, with its forests and islands, is a revelation to the tourist. Its moderate climate makes it an all-the-year-round playground for thousands, while its hunting, fishing, and other sporting attractions are unexcelled on this continent.

Taking into account the scope, the variety and the steadily widening renown of the Dominion's recreational attractions, there is ample ground for the view that these natural assets will, through their direct and indirect commercial effects, prove to be one of the major forces of Canadian development in the next generation.

An average of 3,000,000 persons are ill in the United States every day.

Monkeys trained to operate them are used to try out new types of parachutes in Japan.

You can't fool these two youngsters about this spring business. When there is a sound of preparations in the maple bush, the fragrant scent of burning hard wood and glint of sap pails, it's a sure sign that spring is here. Here we see "Jack" and "Jim" who didn't need to go up the hill, and turner more, it isn't water.

Strange Blue Grass Thrives In Winter

Will Grow Under Adverse Conditions Without Cultivation

Experts from the United States Department of Agriculture predict that the strange winter blue grass discovered on an Oregon farm and believed by them to be the "lost grass" of Europe, may revolutionize farming and dairying industries.

The story of the grass is a farm romance. Similar to grass which disappeared in Europe a century or more ago, it dies down in summer, when other grass is green, but thrives in winter, when food for livestock is low. It forms a perfect turf, even under the snow.

Because the experts found it will grow under adverse conditions, without cultivation, and will thrive in rainy regions, they view it as a solution of the problem of utilizing logged-off lands of the Pacific northwest.

Seeds for use in the Pacific northwest will be sold exclusively in Seattle by the Children's Orthopedic hospital. The agency was a gift of Mrs. E. B. Hanley, on whose farm the seed was found, and will be a source of permanent income for the hospital.

Yellow Journals In Shanghai

People Have To Be Circumspect To Avoid Publicity

The Chinese business or professional man who strays from the straight and narrow path usually reads all about his sins in the papers.

A survey made recently by military authorities indicates that there are more scandal sheets in Shanghai than any other city in the eastern hemisphere and probably in the world. One hundred and ten yellow tri-weekly newspapers are published in the Asiatic metropolis and are all devoted to printing news not fit to print.

To keep these pages supplied with information concerning the doings of Chinese who are in the spotlight, a large army of Chinese scandal mongers is constantly kept on the job. They appear at the most amazing times and at the most inconvenient places.

Queer Sight In Cuba

Trees Grow In Limestone Areas With Little Care

Huge trees growing without any visible means of support are one of the queer sights of the Zapata swamp of Southern Cuba, which is nearly 1,800 square miles in extent. Many varieties of trees, some 4 feet in diameter, are found growing in limestone areas where not so much as a single spoonful of soil can be gathered from an acre. The trees make a start in small pockets and holes in the limestone, where collections of leaves and disintegrated rock furnish them with cover for growth. In their search for food the roots stray about over the surface of the rock, finally plunging through holes to find sustenance in soil hidden deeply in the cavernous recesses of the coral stone.

The Canadian people have confidence in the Wheat Pool and the present condition of the market clearly reflects the success of the Pool, says Professor C. R. Fay, of the economics department of Toronto University. Professor Fay has just completed a survey of the western grain situation and will shortly proceed to England to examine the status of the Canadian Wheat Pool there.

"After my investigation I am a strong supporter of the Pool as it has functioned hitherto as a voluntary organization," he said. "There has been an attempt made in Saskatchewan to make it compulsory for farmers to sell their wheat through the Pool. I am strenuously opposed to that."

The fact that export trade was improving was another indication of improvement in the wheat situation, said Prof. Fay. Considerable attention was given to the American winter wheat crop. However, absence of rain there and only moderate improvements of exports have caused farmers to cease to worry on that score.

Talking over the general situation last year with both representatives of the wheat "trade" and the Pool, Professor Fay was convinced that North America had been most "bullish" in its wheat trading.

"Most emphatically the Pool was not holding out when the trade was selling," he said. "The Pool was offering wheat continuously all summer and fall at below Winnipeg prices in an effort to dispose of the wheat crop."

"But in order to compete with the unusual Argentine crop, it would have been necessary to sacrifice grain as low as 20 cents below the Winnipeg price, which was unreasonable," he continued.

"The difficulty in 1929 was to move the limited quantity of high quality Canadian wheat to Europe, which was determined to depend on its own wheat crop. There is no question of a boycott of Canadian wheat," said Professor Fay. "The tariff wall in England and Europe is just a case of need of tariff protection for local growers against the cheaper Argentine wheat. The ban was not directed at Canadian wheat, but the higher grade grain has suffered, with the lower grade Argentine product."

"I wish to defend the Pool as a strong, stable organization, whose members are standing fully behind it. Even though many of the western farmers are so short of money that they have had to sell their seed grain in order to live, they are supporting their Pool," he said. "The division in Saskatchewan has died down and it is now less acute than in the period of low prices."

Has Sunless Winter

Like Hammerfest in Norway, Prussia has a village upon which the sun never shines during the winter. The name of the community is Forstangswasser, and it is located in the Giant Mountains. Two mountains shelter the village from the winter sun the whole day long, so that the village has nothing but twilight in which to do its work from sunup to sunset.

Heart disease, cancer and accidents claimed more victims in 1929 than in former years.

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION VOTING SYSTEM

Ottawa, Ont.—Proportional representation, which now is occupying the attention of the administration and of the opposition members as well, is not a new subject in Ottawa. In the House of Commons a few days ago, Premier Mackenzie King intimated the government is giving the matter consideration and said the progress made during the session will determine whether or not a bill is introduced.

In 1921, a committee of the House investigated "P.R." The committee recommended taking a plebiscite because it was "not prepared to recommend the application in the next general election." The committee was impressed by the arguments presented by the advocates of the system and in its report said:

"It must be apparent that the present system of elections in single-member constituencies meets fully the purpose intended only when no more than two candidates are nominated. Recent experiences in elections in Canada have brought home to our people the fact that when three or more candidates present themselves in single-member constituencies, the candidate declared elected may, and often does, represent merely a minority of those voting in the constituency."

It was after the 1921 election that a debate and division took place on the report. W. C. Good, Progressive member for Brant in 1923, introduced a motion calling for the adoption of "P.R." in multi-member constituencies. Practically all the then leaders took part in the debate and in the division that followed, the motion was lost. Among those who voted for it were Premier MacKenzie King, Hon. W. S. Fielding, and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen then leader of the Conservative party led the forces opposed to the motion although party lines were not followed rigidly in the division. Hon. Louis-Charles Robitaille, general and Hon. James Malcolm, Minister of Trade and Commerce, were two of the present cabinet ministers who voted in opposition to the motion.

Canadians Well Informed

Are Acquainted With Public Affairs Says Lord Willingdon

Vancouver.—The difficulties of a governor-general who is being constantly asked to deliver addresses and yet is surrounded by limitations in what he may say, were humorously referred to by His Excellency Lord Willingdon in addressing a luncheon of service clubs here.

Speaking of the work of service clubs and of the opportunity they offered for the study of public affairs, Lord Willingdon expressed his opinion "that the citizens of Canada are perhaps better informed on public affairs than citizens of any other country. I wish that in my country we had more of these organizations so that the citizens of my country would know more of empire affairs than they do now."

Plans Return Next Year

Kaye Don Faced Many Difficulties In Trial For Speed Record

New York.—Kaye Don's first attempt to smash the world automobile speed mark on the sands of Daytona Beach is over but the dapper little Englishman with the bristly blonde mustache will be back again for another go at it next year.

It has been anything but a pleasant expedition for the debonaire king of Britain's amateur tracks who set forth like a schoolboy on a holiday two months ago to crack Sir Henry Segrave's mark of 231 miles an hour in the massive Silver Bullet built especially for him by the Sunbeam Motors of England. Twenty-two times Don battled a set of coughing motors and the unusually rough Daytona sands without coming closer to the record than 198 miles an hour.

A new electrical device can be used to seal broken blood vessels.

Predicts Early Election

May Be Held This Year, Says Hon. R. B. Bennett

Calgary.—"All appearances point to the calling of a Dominion election before the end of the present year," asserted Hon. R. B. Bennett, on his return to Calgary following adjournment of the Federal House for the Easter recess.

"I notice that one of the government supporters in Edmonton has fixed the date on which an appeal will be made to the people, but I doubt if the Prime Minister himself has yet determined that point."

"The budget will probably be delivered shortly after the Easter recess," Mr. Bennett continued, "and there is much conjecture as to what it will contain. Undoubtedly promises have been made to the agriculturists of Quebec that a tariff will be imposed on fruits and vegetables, and the iron and steel producers have been assured that their industry will receive protection under the new tariff."

"The action of Australia in imposing a super-tax to practically prohibit the importation of many commodities is justified by the Australian Government as the Canadian Government has imposed a dumping duty of six cents per pound on importation of butter from Australia after a treaty had been signed between Australian and Canadian Governments agreeing to a duty of one cent per pound on these importations. The whole problem of Australian trade is engaging the attention of the government at the present time."

Tariff Commissioner Retires

Fellow-Workers Of J. A. Russell Hold Banquet In His Honor

Ottawa, Ont.—Warm appreciation of the faithful and efficient service which he has given to the Dominion over a period of more than half a century was voiced at a banquet given in honor of James A. Russell, retiring commissioner of tariffs for the department of finance.

The event was signalled by the attendance of friends and fellow-workers of Mr. Russell, from the department of finance, the department of national revenue, the tariff advisory board, and the department of external affairs, who gathered at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club to do honor to the retiring commissioner.

After serving the country for fifty-three years, during which time he was associated with six finance ministers, Mr. Russell now retires on pension under the seventy-five year age provision.

Trouble In British Textile Mills Growing

Workers Fighting Wage Reduction Employers Deem Necessary

London, Eng.—Day by day the prospects of a long stoppage of work in the woolen and textile industries seem to be growing and it is now feared—unless the government steps in—the country must face a long and bitter struggle between the men and women who will not accept wage reductions and the employers who, acting on the report of Lord McMillan, deem such reductions necessary to the continued existence of the industry.

Today the General Trades Union congress appealed to its affiliated trade unions for financial assistance for the Yorkshire workers. The general council itself headed the list with a contribution of five hundred pounds, or about $435.

Drigible To Span Atlantic

London, Eng.—The British dirigible R-100 will attempt to bridge the Atlantic this spring, the first step toward the British dream of an air-linked empire. Meanwhile the Graf Zeppelin will start on its sixth transatlantic trip. The United States, focal point of former air lines crossings, will be neglected, for the R-100 will point for Canada and the Graf for South America.

Thousand Acres Sown

Lethbridge, Alberta.—O. B. Lasater has completed sowing 1,000 acres of wheat in summerfall. Several farmers of the Bow Island district have finished wheat seeding. The recent rainstorm is the cause of much jubilation by these farmers.

Britain Acts On Liquor Shipments

Will Introduce Bill To Safeguard

Interests Of U.S. House of Commons, by a vote of 215 to 142, gave a Liberal member leave to introduce a bill to entitle the board of trade to suspend or cancel the certificate of any master, mate or engineer engaging in the illicit importation of intoxicating liquor into United States territory.

After Isaac Foot, Liberal member from Cornwall, had spoken for ten minutes' advocating the measure, Frederick A. Macquisten, Conservative member from Argyll and a lawyer who sometimes acts professionally for the liquor trade, opposed the bill in a speech filled with humorous remarks.

Lady Astor, United States-born peeress and ardent temperance advocate, interrupted Macquisten several times.

Night Editor Of Calgary Herald Dead

P. W. Stone Was Well Known Throughout Canada

Calgary.—Percy W. Stone, for more than ten years night editor of the "The Calgary Herald" and known from coast to coast as one of Canada's veteran newspapermen, died April 15, following a heart attack. He was 54 years of age. Prior to becoming associated with "The Herald," Mr. Stone worked on "The Winnipeg Telegram," and later became editor of "The Bannockburn Mail" and managing editor of "The Crag and Canyon" in Banff.

Mr. Stone was an Englishman by birth, but came to Canada as a boy and taught school in Ontario before coming west.

Establishes New Speed Record

Pilot Buchanan Makes Fast Flight From Winnipeg To Regina

Regina.—A flight from Winnipeg to Regina in two hours and 45 minutes, establishing a new speed record for that leg of the Western Canada air mail service, was made by Pilot W. J. Buchanan on April 13, in a Fokker P-14 machine.

He left Winnipeg at 9:05 p.m. (Winnipeg time), or 8:05 p.m. Regina time, and arrived here at 10:50 p.m. (Regina time).

There was a 25-mile an hour wind blowing from the southeast during most of the flight, but unfavorable weather made it necessary for him to "fly blind" from Broadview to Regina. The total distance is 336 miles.

Surveyed Air Mail Routes

Superintendent Of Airways Returns To Ottawa From West

Ottawa.—Making a two-day stop-over flight from High River, Alberta, to the capital, Squadron Leader J. H. Tudhope, superintendent of airways for the civil aviation branch, has returned from a survey of air mail routes in Western Canada. The return flight of approximately 2,208 miles was made in 17 hours and 50 minutes flying time. Five stops were made.

Major Tudhope's survey had as its purpose an investigation of possible routes for the final links in Western Canada of the trans-Canada Air Mail Service, to be completed in the near future.

Keeping Up Record

World's Champion Egg-Laying Hen Still Leads In Production

Saskatoon.—Lady Victorine, world's champion egg-laying hen, is doing very well in her second year. When this Barred Rock pullet, who lives at the University of Saskatchewan, completed her first year of egg production, during which she laid 358 eggs, she did not moult immediately but laid another 16 eggs last September.

Towards the end of December she resumed business, laying four eggs in that month. In January, February and March she worked steadily and produced as many eggs as the average Saskatchewan hen does in a year.

Impressed With Bay Port

Development At Churchill Was Surprise To Premier Bracken

The Pas, Man.—Churchill will probably not be thrown open to the public this year is the opinion of Premier John Bracken, who has returned from his first visit to the northern seaport.

Mr. Bracken stated it would seem unwise to open it to the public as no provision has as yet been made for public utilities other than those for the government men who will be employed there this year.

Premier Bracken stated he was impressed with the magnitude of the development at Churchill.

MANY INJURED DURING SERIOUS RIOT IN INDIA

Calcutta, India.—Nineteen persons were injured in heavy fighting between Nationalists and police in the Bhowanipore Sikh quarter of Calcutta. Tram cars were burned in both Calcutta and Bombay and armored cars patrolled the streets of the latter city when students and veterans joined in the attempt to stop vehicular traffic by obstructing roadways and tram-lines.

Six European officers were among the injured at Calcutta. A European woman cycling in the district, was forced to dismount and abandon her machine when she was stoned by the crowd. She received nasty gashes. Ten Khalasias were injured.

There were unconfirmed reports of firing in North Calcutta. Armed police were on duty throughout the affected area and armored cars were active.

Seven British officials were injured by the time the situation was brought under control. Two members of a South Calcutta mob were injured when a European police sergeant opened fire to save an injured fellow-officer who was being attacked. A fireman suffered a fractured skull when he was attacked by a crowd opposing his efforts to extinguish a tram-car blaze.

Miss Daisy Dench, London girl, who attempted against police advice to ride a motorcycle through a riot section, was taken to a hospital with deep gashes from stones which the hostile mob flung at her. Her way was blocked and she had to run for her life amid a hail of broken road material.

Will Not Seriously Affect Canadian Trade

Chancellor Of Exchequer Announces Tariff Changes In British House

Ottawa.—Tariff experts of the Dominion Government are studying the tariff changes announced by Rt. Hon. Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, in the British House of Commons. The general opinion expressed is that they will not seriously affect Canadian trade. The fact that the McKenna duties remain on motor cars, motion picture films and musical instruments is most important.

The removal of the McKenna duties would have wiped out the advantage which Canada now has over the United States in the British market and the products would be allowed in free from both countries. According to information received from Mr. Snowden's announcement, the first of safeguarding duties which will pass out of existence is that on lace and embroidery. This duty was put on five years and would end in 1927. It is a duty on the export of this product it will not affect her. The duty on cutlery comes off on December 22 next.

To Cut Grain Acreage

Special Survey Discloses Substantial Reductions In North Dakota

Washington, D.C.—Governor George F. Schafer, of North Dakota, and John L. Coulter, chief economist of the tariff commission, told Chairman Alexander Legge that substantial reductions in both hard and soft spring wheat acreages may be expected in North Dakota and neighboring areas covered by a special survey made by Coulter.

The eastern section of North Dakota, the chairman said, is expected to reduce its acreage of durum wheat more than 15 per cent, forecast by the Department of Agriculture. The reduction of hard spring wheat in the western section will be less, but of considerable importance.

Boys Killed In Fire

Lucata, Sicily.—Fifteen boys, ranging in ages between 15 and 18, were killed in a moviehouse fire and stampede. A general rush for the exits, following outbreak of fire in the film room, was the cause of the fatalities. In addition, three others were seriously injured and five were slightly hurt.

Pawlyk v. Pawlyk Appeal

A case of interest to residents of Carvel district was heard in the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of Alberta on Tuesday last when the appeal of John Pawlyk against the order of Mr Justice Ives dismissing his entire action was heard by the five judges of the Appeal Court. Their Lordships, after hearing the arguments of H A Mackie, K.C., for John Pawlyk, and George J Bryan for Luc Pawlyk, delivered a judgment sustaining the trial judge on the major portion of his judgment and ordered a trial on one paragraph of the statement of claim. As the case now stands, John Pawlyk's claim to wages and for money paid amounting to nearly $1200 stands dismissed, and the only point in question covers certain old machinery.

"Not one cent under a dollar seventy-five, Edgar Purdie, and then I'm giving them away. But you needn't feel at all obliged to take them. That darling girl will meet the city and knows a bargain when likely snap 'em up. She comes from she sees one. Maybe you'd better be getting on. It's quite a ride to South Wickfield, and you've got to go back home for whatever it is you're going to."

"Whoever said I was goin' to South Wickfield?" burst from the embarrassed deacon. He was almost as red as his new tie. "Look here, Grandma Davis, don't you put those beads away. This is a—sort of an emergency. Will you take one-fifty, just for the sake of old lang syne?"

"Well," sighed Grandma, "seeing that you're an old friend, Edgar, and, as you said, this is a—particular occasion, I'll let you have 'em. But you'll have to pay me cash. Giving 'em away like this I—"

"Oh, I'll pay cash!" broke in the deacon eagerly. He pulled out a wallet, deposited the amount in Grandma's hand and put the coveted possession into his pocket, buttoning his coat above it for extra safety. "Good-by, Grandma. Seems to me you've done an awful hard bargain, but there's times when it pays to splurge a little. You sure these beads are stylish?" he added, pausing; and at the old lady's vigorous affirmative he closed the door.

It was as well, perhaps, that he did not stay longer, for no sooner was he safely off than Charman and the doctor burst from their retreat in the next room.

"Your granddaughter seems to be in a state verging on collapse," announced John Carter, "I had hard work to restrain her from spilling that shrewd transaction that you have just terminated so successfully. Believe me, Grandma Davis, you would have shone as a horse trader!"

The old lady chuckled, and commented, as Charman sank limply into the chair recently occupied by her victim.

"I do know when I've had such a good time. I wish now that I'd asked more, and made him come up on his offer slow and painful. When I remember—"

"But, Grandma," interrupted Charman sternly, "though the corners of her mouth twitched upward, 'you said you'd ask a dollar, and you asked two!"

"I said I'd made him pay a dollar," corrected Grandma. "Do you suppose, child, if I'd said a dollar in the first place that he'd have given it? You don't know Edgar Purdie like I do. That's why I asked for cash. If Luella refuses him this afternoon we'd have had those beads back on our hands come night, or my name's not Davis. You can't tell me anything about Ed Purdie, I went to school with him."

"What shall you do with your ill-gotten gains?" queried the doctor, his eyes twinkling.

Grandma looked thoughtfully from the window as she replied: "I suppose I ought to put it in the foreign mission box; but I guess it'll do full as much good helping to pay the milk man. Here, Charman, you better take it. It's not every day that we make a dollar and a half so easily."

"We might spend it on a wedding gift for the deacon!" suggested Charman, as she arose and took the profits of the nefarious transaction from Grandma's hand.

"Indeed, we shan't!" snapped the old lady quickly. "I gave him a present when he married his first wife, Emma Dodd, as good a woman as ever drew breath o' life. It was a silver sugar spoon, and came from Portland. Emma was well pleased with it, but six months later Edgar made her shine it up and give it to his second cousin, Eliza Stone, who was getting married over at Templeton. Lizzie Baker was at the wedding and saw it with her own eyes. It was the last wedding present I ever gave to Edgar Purdie, though I dear know I had chances enough as the years passed. Well! Well! We little thought when you asked Jim Bennett to get those beads, Charman, what a good investment we were making!"

"A marvelous investment, considering the fact that Jim paid for the beads himself!" laughed Charman. "I'm going to ride with him this evening. Grandma, and shall entertain him with an account of your trip into high finance."

"You better make him promise not to tell," warned the old lady. "If Sarah Bennett got hold of it, the whole thing would be torn back by night, and like as not the deacon would sue me for damages—that is, if he could get Gam Garfield to take the case!"

"Here comes Edward Howe," she added, with a glance from the window. "He's stopped, and is staring at your new office, sonny. You might run out and see if he wants you to help out of a leg or something. And see here! You ask him to step in a minute if he's got time. I want to tell him how I got the better of Edgar Purdie!"

CHAPTER X.

Two weeks had passed, busy weeks for Charman, and not devoid of interest. With housewifely instinct she had reviled in putting the finishing touches to the young doctor's office. He heartily approved of the Java cotton for the windows; and a letter to his sister in Boston had been fruitful of results in the shape of a rug that brought an exclamation of rapture from the girl when she first saw it.

"Are you a millionaire?" she gasped when she could find her voice.

He laughed. "Far from it! But neither am I the world's worst spendthrift, if you might think. This happens to be one of the treasures that fell to my lot when my mother died, and the old home was broken up. It's a Bokhara, and blends with those hangings as if it were made for them, doesn't it? And behold, fair lady, my sister's donation to my new quarters! Aren't they stunning?"

He held aloft a pair of beautiful brass candlesticks, while Charman exclaimed again. They were in the office, the door wide open to let in the summer sunshine which fell across the shining brass as the girl reached for the treasures, and set them on either end of the old mantle.

"I feel that Aladdin himself must be occupying the room where Grandma's once kept her 'misted help,'" she remarked whimsically. "All you do is to drop a letter in the Wickfield post office, and 'lo! rare tapestries and antique brass descend upon us! Have your wishes always been granted?"

To her surprise the doctor took her question seriously. He was looking down at the rug, and when he raised his eyes she saw that her careless words had struck some chord that hurt him.

"Up to a certain age, I suppose they were," he replied thoughtfully, "and yet, the possession of this rug, for instance, is not without a twinge of heartache. It means—my having it at all—then for I no longer have my parents—that never again shall I see it in its accustomed place in the big living room, at home. It brings up memories that hurt, you see, even though I love them."

"It is wonderful to have those memories," she said, laying an impulsive hand on his.

He squeezed her hand, and responded cheerfully: "Of course it is! But the first glimpse of that old rug brought everything back, and gave me a silly lump in the throat for just a minute. Really, it looks corking, doesn't it? And it was like sis to send the candlesticks. Does the place suit you, Mistress Charman?"

"Isn't it more to the point to ask if it suits you?" laughed the girl as she wiped some dust from the old mantle.

"You know without the asking. It's perfect; and, thanks to your feminine touch, even the waiting room looks livable."

"Those thanks are really due to the wicker chair you sent for," she corrected. "Yes, I'm satisfied. It looks—Why, here's the doctor!" she broke off suddenly. "Come in, Doctor Howe, and pass judgment on the finished product of our labor."

The old man stepped inside, looking about with shrewd, appraising eyes.

"Not much like my first office," he commented. "It was a room over the old drug store, hot as blazes in summer, and proportionately cold when the snow fell. You're a lucky man, John Carter, with a place like this, and Charman Davis to look after you!"

"I realize that," responded the young M.D., with a glance at Charman that brought new color to her cheeks. "At least, I shall have a pleasant place to cool my heels in while waiting for the trusting public to employ me. Do you want my company this morning, sir?"

"That's why I stopped. I need your young enthusiasm to throw light on a case that's been bothering me for weeks. Want to go with us, Charman? It's a beautiful morning for a ride."

The girl looked longingly through the open doorway, but answered: "I couldn't, really. I've a thousand and one things to do this morning. What time shall you be back? If a patient appears in your absence, Doctor Carter, I'll keep him here if I have to sit on him!"

"We'll be back at noontime," chuckled the old doctor; and as they started John Carter turned to wave farewell to the girl who stood in the doorway of his new office.

Charman waited there until the shabby car vanished down the elm-shaded street, then turned back to the room behind her, looking down at the Oriental rug with eyes that drank thirstily of its beauty.

Future Of Television

Great Possibilities Are Foreseen By

Earl Of Clarendon, former chairman of the British Broadcasting Corporation, foresees "staggering possibilities" for television.

He says: "When it is possible to present a stage play or a national event such as the Derby on a small screen which a family or perhaps a small audience in a hall can see, then television will go like wildfire."

While we have some distance to travel before that goal can be achieved enough progress has been made to suggest that it may be attained within the next few years.

Minister, Run-Down In Health, Gains 7 lbs. in 3 Weeks

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes: "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironized Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again."

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny" tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blended skin clears.

Only when yeast is Ironized is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs.

Go to any drugstore today and get a full size treatment of Ironized Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, your money back instantly from manufacturer.
